Confidential Reporting (Whistleblowing) Policy – Safeguarding 5

Howe Green House School

This Policy also includes Little Oaks Nursery and Before and After School Provision

Statement of Intent

The governors and staff of Howe Green House School fully recognise the contribution it makes to safeguarding and promoting the welfare of children. We recognise that all staff, including volunteers, have a full and active part to play in protecting our pupils from harm.

All staff and governors believe that our school should provide a caring, positive, safe and stimulating environment, which promotes the intellectual, social, physical, and moral development of the individual child.

Introduction

The school is committed to the highest possible standards of openness, honesty and accountability. In line with this commitment, the Governing Body encourages employees with serious concerns about any aspect of the school's work to come forward and voice these concerns. This process is commonly referred to as "whistleblowing". It is recognised that staff may not express their concerns because they feel that speaking up would be disloyal to their colleagues or to the school. However, all staff should be aware of their duty to raise concerns where they exist, about the attitude or actions of colleagues. They may also fear harassment or victimisation which may lead them to ignore the concern rather than report what may be a suspicion of malpractice. Therefore, it is acknowledged that certain cases will have to proceed on a confidential basis. This policy is intended to encourage and enable staff to raise serious concerns and make it clear that staff can make reports without fear of reprisals.

Aims

This policy aims to:

- encourage staff to feel confident in raising serious concerns and to question and act upon concerns about practice;
- provide avenues for staff to raise concerns and receive feedback on any action taken;
- ensure that staff receive a response to their concerns;
- allow staff to take the matter further if they are dissatisfied with the school's response to the concerns expressed;

- reassure staff that they will be protected from possible reprisals or victimisation, if staff have a reasonable belief that they have made a disclosure in good faith.

Scope

There are existing procedures in place to enable staff to lodge a grievance relating to their own employment. The Confidential Reporting (Whistleblowing) Policy is intended to cover concerns that fall outside the scope of the grievance procedure. Any serious concern that a member of staff has about an aspect of service provision or the conduct of staff or governors or others acting on behalf of the school can, and should be, reported under this policy.

This concern may be about something that is:

- an offence or breach of law;
- a disclosure relating to a miscarriage of justice;
- a health and safety risk, including risk to visitors as well as employees or pupils;
- damage to the environment;
- possible fraud and corruption;
- sexual or physical abuse of pupils or staff;
- against school policies;
- against established standards of practice;
- other improper or unethical conduct.

The concern may be something that makes employees feel uncomfortable in terms of known standards, their experience or the standards to which they believe the school subscribes.

All staff

The school recognises that children cannot be expected to raise concerns in an environment where staff fail to do so therefore, a culture of openness and scrutiny from a staff perspective is essential to further promote the confidence of children feeling able to speak up and voice any concerns.

Safeguards

Harassment or Victimisation

The Governing Body recognises that the decision to report a concern can be a difficult one to make, not least because of the fear of reprisals from those who may be guilty of malpractice or from the school as a whole. The school will not tolerate any harassment or victimisation (including informal pressures) and will take appropriate action in order to protect a person who raises a concern in good faith. Any investigation into allegations of potential malpractice raised by an individual will not influence or be influenced by any disciplinary or other procedure that is already affecting the individual.

Confidentiality

All concerns will be treated in confidence and every effort will be made not to reveal the identity if that is the wish of the individual. However, it must be appreciated that any investigation process may reveal the source of the information and that the individual may need to come forward as a witness and provide a statement, as part of the evidence or in order to pursue the complaint.

Anonymity

This policy encourages members of staff who raise concerns to put their name to the allegation whenever possible. Concerns expressed anonymously are much less powerful but will be considered at the discretion of the school. In exercising this discretion, the factors to be taken into account would include:

- the seriousness of the issues raised;
- the credibility of the concern;
- the likelihood of obtaining the necessary information.

False and Malicious Allegations

The school will protect itself and its staff from false and malicious expressions of concern by taking disciplinary action where appropriate. If a concern, which is genuinely believed, proves to be unfounded on investigation, no action will be taken against the member of staff. The school will try to ensure that the negative impact of either a malicious or unfounded allegation about any person is minimised. However, it acknowledges that it may not be possible to prevent all potential repercussions involved.

Raising a Concern

Concerns should normally be raised with an appropriate level of line management (i.e. Head of Department or Bursar). However, the most appropriate person to contact will depend on the seriousness and sensitivity of the issues involved and who is suspected of the malpractice. If a member of staff believes that the Headteacher is involved in a matter of concern, an approach should be made to the Chair of Governors.

Concerns may be raised verbally or in writing. Staff who wish to make a written report are invited to use the following format:

- the background and history of the concern (giving relevant dates);
- the reason why the member of staff is particularly concerned about the situation.

It should be noted that the earlier a concern is expressed, the easier it is to take appropriate action.

Although staff are not expected to prove the truth of an allegation that is made, it will be necessary that they are able to demonstrate that there are sufficient grounds for concern. Advice and guidance on how specific matters of concern may be pursued can be sought from their trade union or professional association.

Staff may wish to consider discussing their concerns with a colleague first and may find it easier to raise the matter if there are two (or more) of them who have had the same experience or concerns. Staff may invite their trade union or professional association representative or work colleague to be present during any meetings or interviews in connection with the concerns they have raised.

How the School will Respond

The action taken by the school will depend on the nature of the concern. Where appropriate, the matters raised may:

- be investigated by a senior member of staff or through the disciplinary process;
- be referred to the Police;
- form the subject of an independent inquiry.

In order to protect individuals and the school, an initial investigation will be carried out to decide whether a full investigation is appropriate and, if so, what form it should take. Concerns or allegations, which fall within the scope of specific procedures (for example, child safeguarding or discrimination issues), will normally be referred for consideration under those procedures.

It should be noted that some concerns may be resolved by agreed action without the need for investigation. Equally some issues may be investigated without the need for initial enquiries. If urgent action is required, this will be taken before any investigation is conducted.

Within ten working days (term time) of a concern being raised, the Headteacher (or Chair of Governors) will write to the person who has raised the concern:

- acknowledging that the concern has been received;
- indicating how she/he proposes to deal with the matter;
- giving an estimate of how long it will take to provide a final response;
- telling the person whether any initial enquiries have been made;
- supplying the person with information on staff support systems;
- telling the person whether further investigations will take place and, if not, why not.

Every effort will be made to resolve the matters raised as soon as possible, in the interests of the school, the person raising the concern and the person(s) being investigated. The amount of contact between the Headteacher (or Chair of Governors) considering the issues and the member of staff raising the concern will depend on the nature of the matters raised, the potential difficulties involved and the clarity of the information provided. If necessary, further information may be sought from the person raising the concern.

Where any meeting is arranged, staff have the right, if they so wish, to be accompanied by a trade union or professional association representative or a work colleague who is not involved in the area of work to which the concern relates.

The school will take appropriate steps to minimise any difficulties, which a member of staff may experience as a result of raising a concern. For example, if staff are required to give evidence in criminal or disciplinary proceedings, the school will need to inform them and consider what steps are required to provide support. The school accepts that staff raising a concern need to be assured that the matter has been properly addressed. Thus, subject to legal constraints, the person raising the concern will receive as much information as possible as the investigation progresses.

Taking the Matter Further

This policy is intended to provide staff with an avenue to raise concerns within the school. However, if a member of staff is dissatisfied with the school's response, she or he can raise the matter with the Governing Board.

If the matter of concern is taken outside the school, the member of staff should ensure that, as far as possible, it is raised without confidential information being divulged. Other than in exceptional circumstances, it would be expected that staff have exhausted the internal routes available first.

Monitoring the Policy

The Headteacher and Chair of Governors will register the nature of any concerns raised and record the outcome.
